Odell Nassar

Mr. Nassau,

I really have enjoyed writing for this year.
I hope to be in your home room when I am in 12th grade. I think you are the greatest teacher ever here.

A friend always,
Dawn

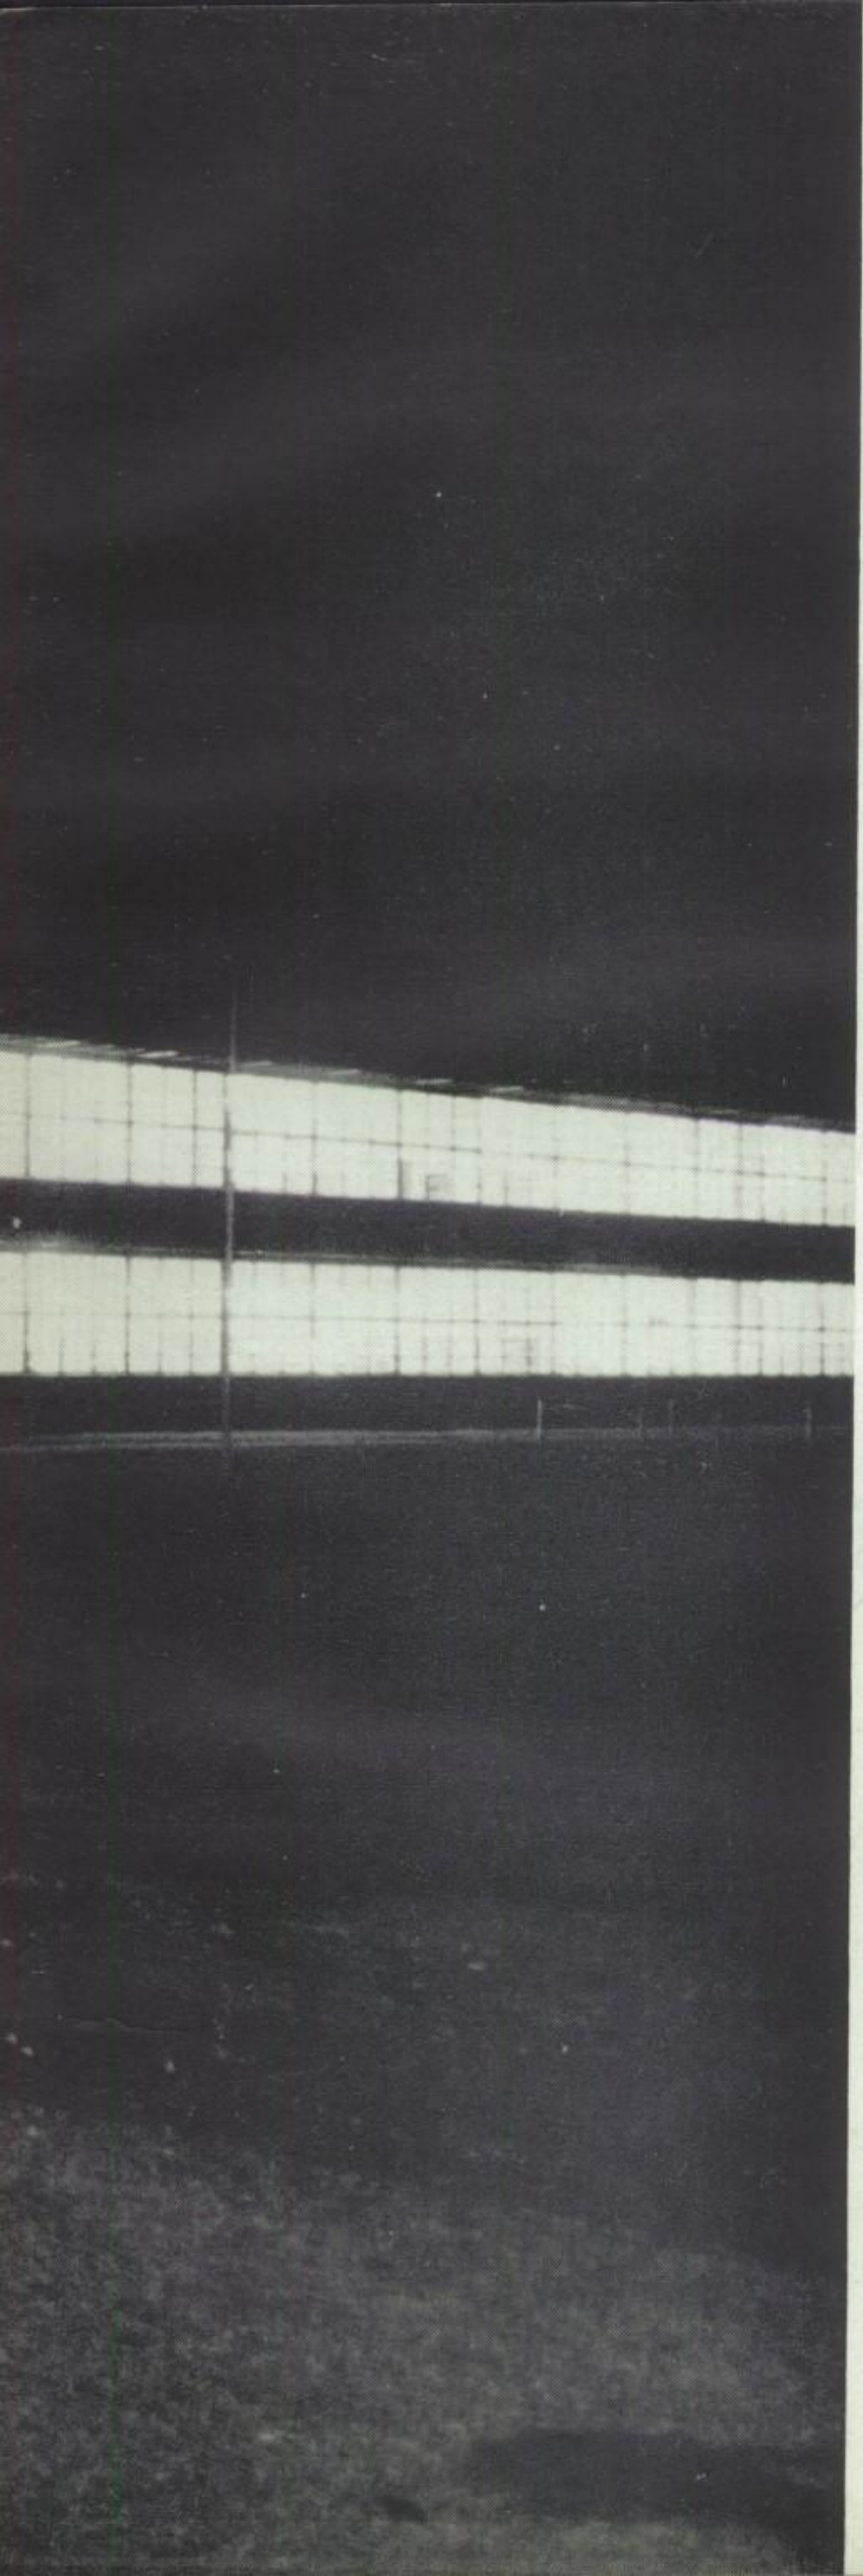
The

CARILLON

JOHN MOTLEY MOREHEAD HIGH SCHOOL

Spray, North Carolina

Nineteen Hundred and Fifty-Eight



As the Morehead Carillon peals throughout the community, so the influence of the school itself is felt in every facet of community life. The school and the community are not isolated groups, but are interrelated. The every happening of one affects the other so that as the community provides for the life of the school, it receives in return a constant stream of both cultural and material benefits.

The Carillon — spirit of the school — is ever present when we, the students, meet the community.

Mr. Nassar,
I have certainly enjoyed being in your classes - again!
I have enjoyed working for you and I know that I have profited from it.
I sure do wish I was coming back here next year. You're the best teacher I have ever had in my school life. You are a true friend, indeed!

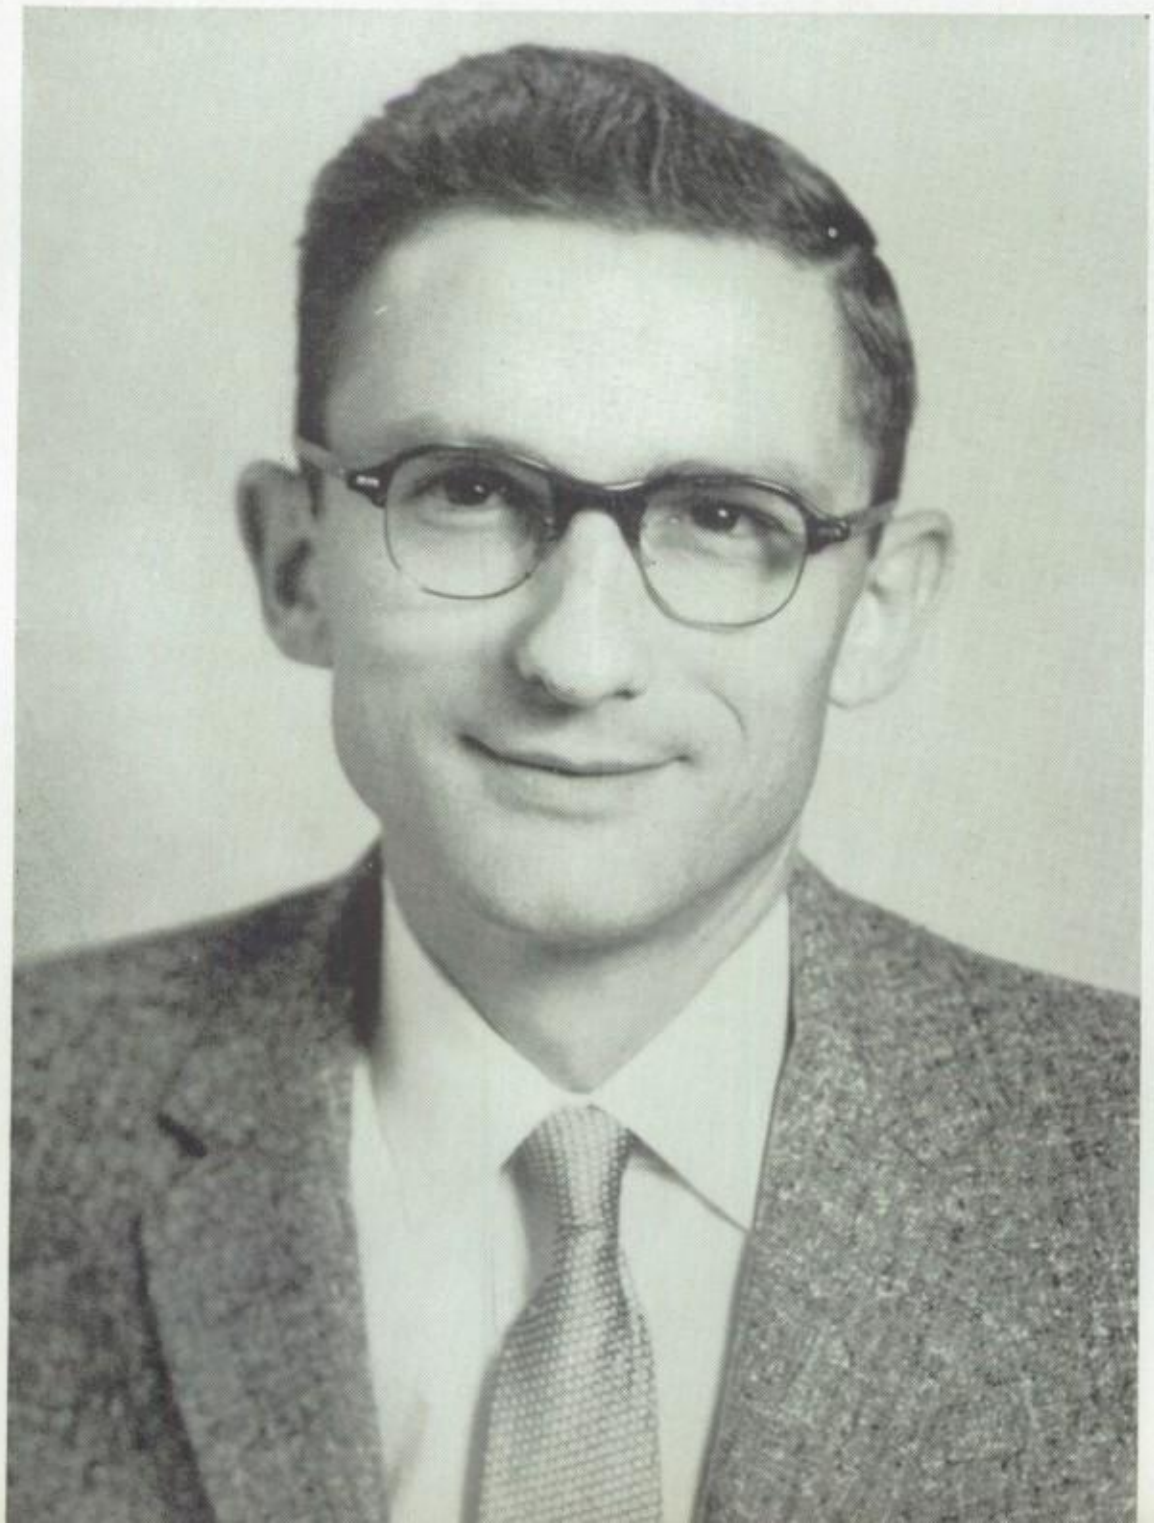
DEDICATION

To you, Mr. Voigt F. Morgan, we, the seniors of 1958, dedicate this year's CARILLON. There are many reasons why we selected you for this honor. From the time as sophomores struggling through biology to the time as seniors ploughing through chemistry, students can be sure that you are out to "learn" them something! If the lesson to be taught is not biology or chemistry, it is the value of a college education, or the do's and don'ts of social conduct! You are famous for your tangy statements which have the power to enliven any class or club meeting.

Over and above your classroom work, you are the advisor of the Science Club; take charge of the buses and bus drivers; direct the senior play; head the science department; stage the Science Fair; back all athletic activities; help sponsor the Youth Family Life Council; and you are everybody's friend!

But why go on forever? We all know you, Mr. Morgan, and our lives are better for having worked with you!



In his capacity as advisor to the bus drivers, Mr. Morgan assists in filling out monthly reports.

Martha Stephens adjusts laboratory apparatus under the watchful eye of Mr. Morgan.

Mr. Morgan and his colleagues map out plans for the 1958 Science Fair.

Members of the senior play committee are assisted by their director in choosing a script.

ADMINISTRATION

Faculty members do far more than their regularly scheduled classes. They chaperone our parties, sponsor our clubs, direct our plays, and do about a thousand and one other things for us —the students! For this constant service their material rewards are few, but they have psychic income aplenty.

The tea put on by the Woman's Club is a gesture of friendliness to new teachers and a renewed welcome for those returning for another year of service. The efforts of the members of our staff are obviously appreciated by everyone.

There are also on our staff those who do everything from cooking our lunches to managing the library. Mrs. Banks, our School Secretary, is one of those persons who aid everyone — students and faculty alike! Her indefatigable efforts get people located, reports made promptly, stencils cut, transcripts sent, and numerous other big and little problems solved.

The perfection sought by our teachers, along with their helpful and interested attitude toward students, has proved to be a profitable and an enjoyable combination.

Faculty members gather in the conference room for their regular meetings, to discuss school events, to check the bulletin board, and to pick up their daily mail.

CLASSES

Our high school is one of the fortunate schools with a large number of courses available to all students. From the sophomore through the senior year, we are able to choose courses for college preparatory work, business training, and development of vocational skills. We have an opportunity to taste everything from Euclid's geometrical hypothesis to Shakespeare's Sir John Falstaff. The thorough instruction given has prepared many students for successful futures. In many of these classes we lose the distinction between sophomore, junior, and senior; members of all three groups work together as one.

In many other cases these three classes work independently. Each has its own meetings, projects, and socials; and generally, each has its own study interests.

Outside of school, there is nothing like a ball game, or a party to erase all "class barriers" and bring the whole school together. Though we are separated in many of our activities, times like these make us realize that we are part of a great school and not just a class.

ACTIVITIES

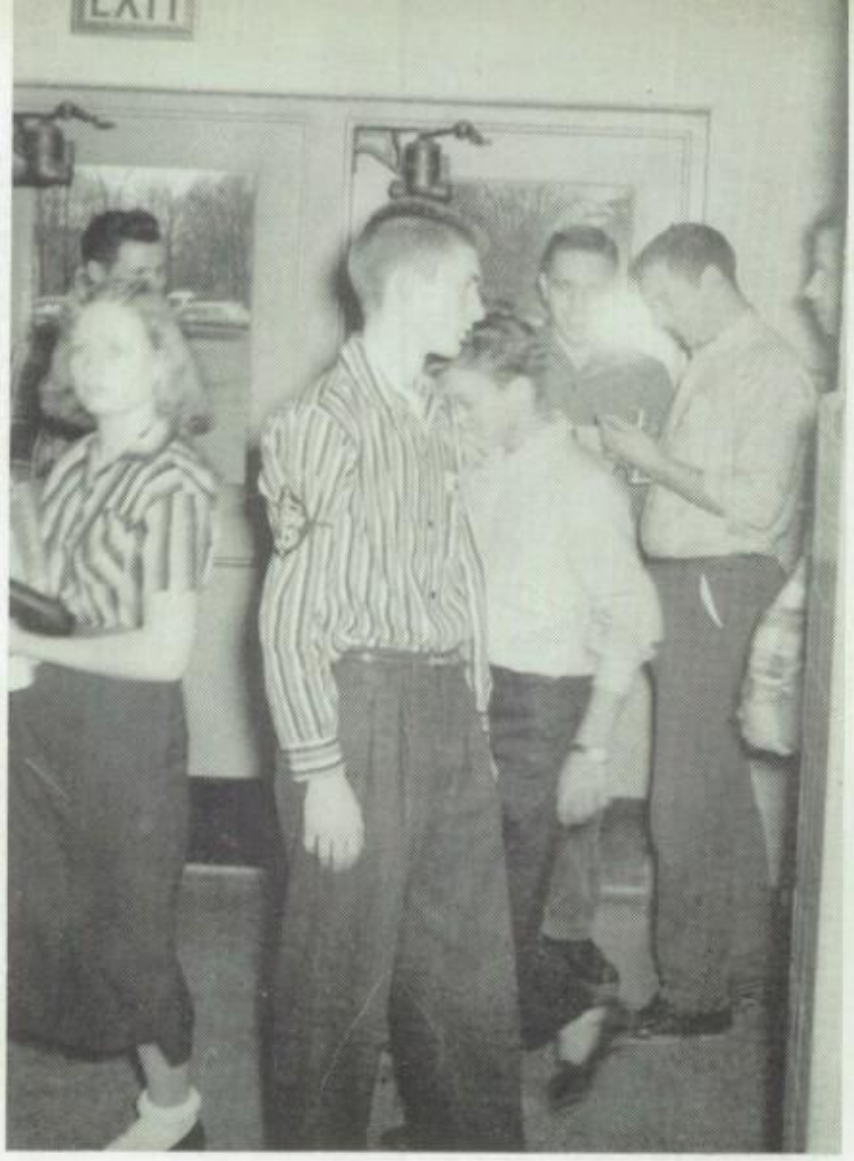
Much of our school time is taken up by extra-curricular activities. Almost every student takes part in one or more of the clubs organized in school. There are groups for students who excell scholastically or athletically, for students interested in a particular vocation, and for everyone in each class. Among the important class activities is the junior magazine sale. This is a campaign of several weeks, climaxed for the energetic by prizes and certificates.

Public speaking is one of the most rewarding activities. Though it takes long hours of preparation, an actual debate is well worth the effort — as members of the team will willingly tell you!

Several clubs sponsor events pictured elsewhere in the annual. Others have important positions in the school government and organization. Members of one club do a little substitute teaching. The majority of the students enjoy these organizations, and there is a definite profit for those who enter seriously into the activities. The worth of these clubs is becoming known to people in colleges and businesses everywhere. It is to our advantage to become active members of those that interest us.

Marie Minter, Ann Heffinger, Sylvia King, and Loretta Holliman, D. E. students, wrap gifts as a part of the school's "White Christmas" project.

ACTIVITIES



Student Council

The Student Council is the part of the school government made up of elected student representatives. These students, with the help of their advisor, Mr. Odell Nassar, work out solutions to school problems and direct the students in the halls and at assembly.

The work of the Council has a decided effect on all school activities and is a fine example of the cooperation that exists between faculty and students.

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society encourages in its members good character, scholastic achievement, leadership, and a desire to serve.

The students who belong to this organization are selected on their ability to live up to the standards mentioned above.

Under the direction of Mrs. Sarah G. Dininny, the club sponsors a tea for honor roll students and Social Standards Day.

Future Teachers is an organization sponsored by the National Education Association to interest outstanding young people in teaching.

To obtain membership in the Morehead Chapter, a student must be at least a junior with a scholastic average of 85 or better and a definite desire to teach.

The club, guided by Mrs. Sara H. Ferguson, has College Day and a trip to Woman's College to observe classes as annual projects.

Bus Drivers

The group of students who drive our buses comprise one of the more important elements of our school system. Their early morning and late afternoon efforts get us to school and back home safely and usually on time!

Those of us who pass by the office during the day are familiar with the faces of students who aid faculty members by running errands, answering the telephone, and thumbing through records. Whether hard at work at the file cabinets or at the mimeograph, their office position often makes the work of others easier and more enjoyable!

Giving the librarian time to help other students is the task of these busy assistants. Stamping cards, preparing new books for the shelves, and straightening the library constitute only a few of their jobs.

Always on hand, these three groups fill a great need in our school.

ATHLETICS

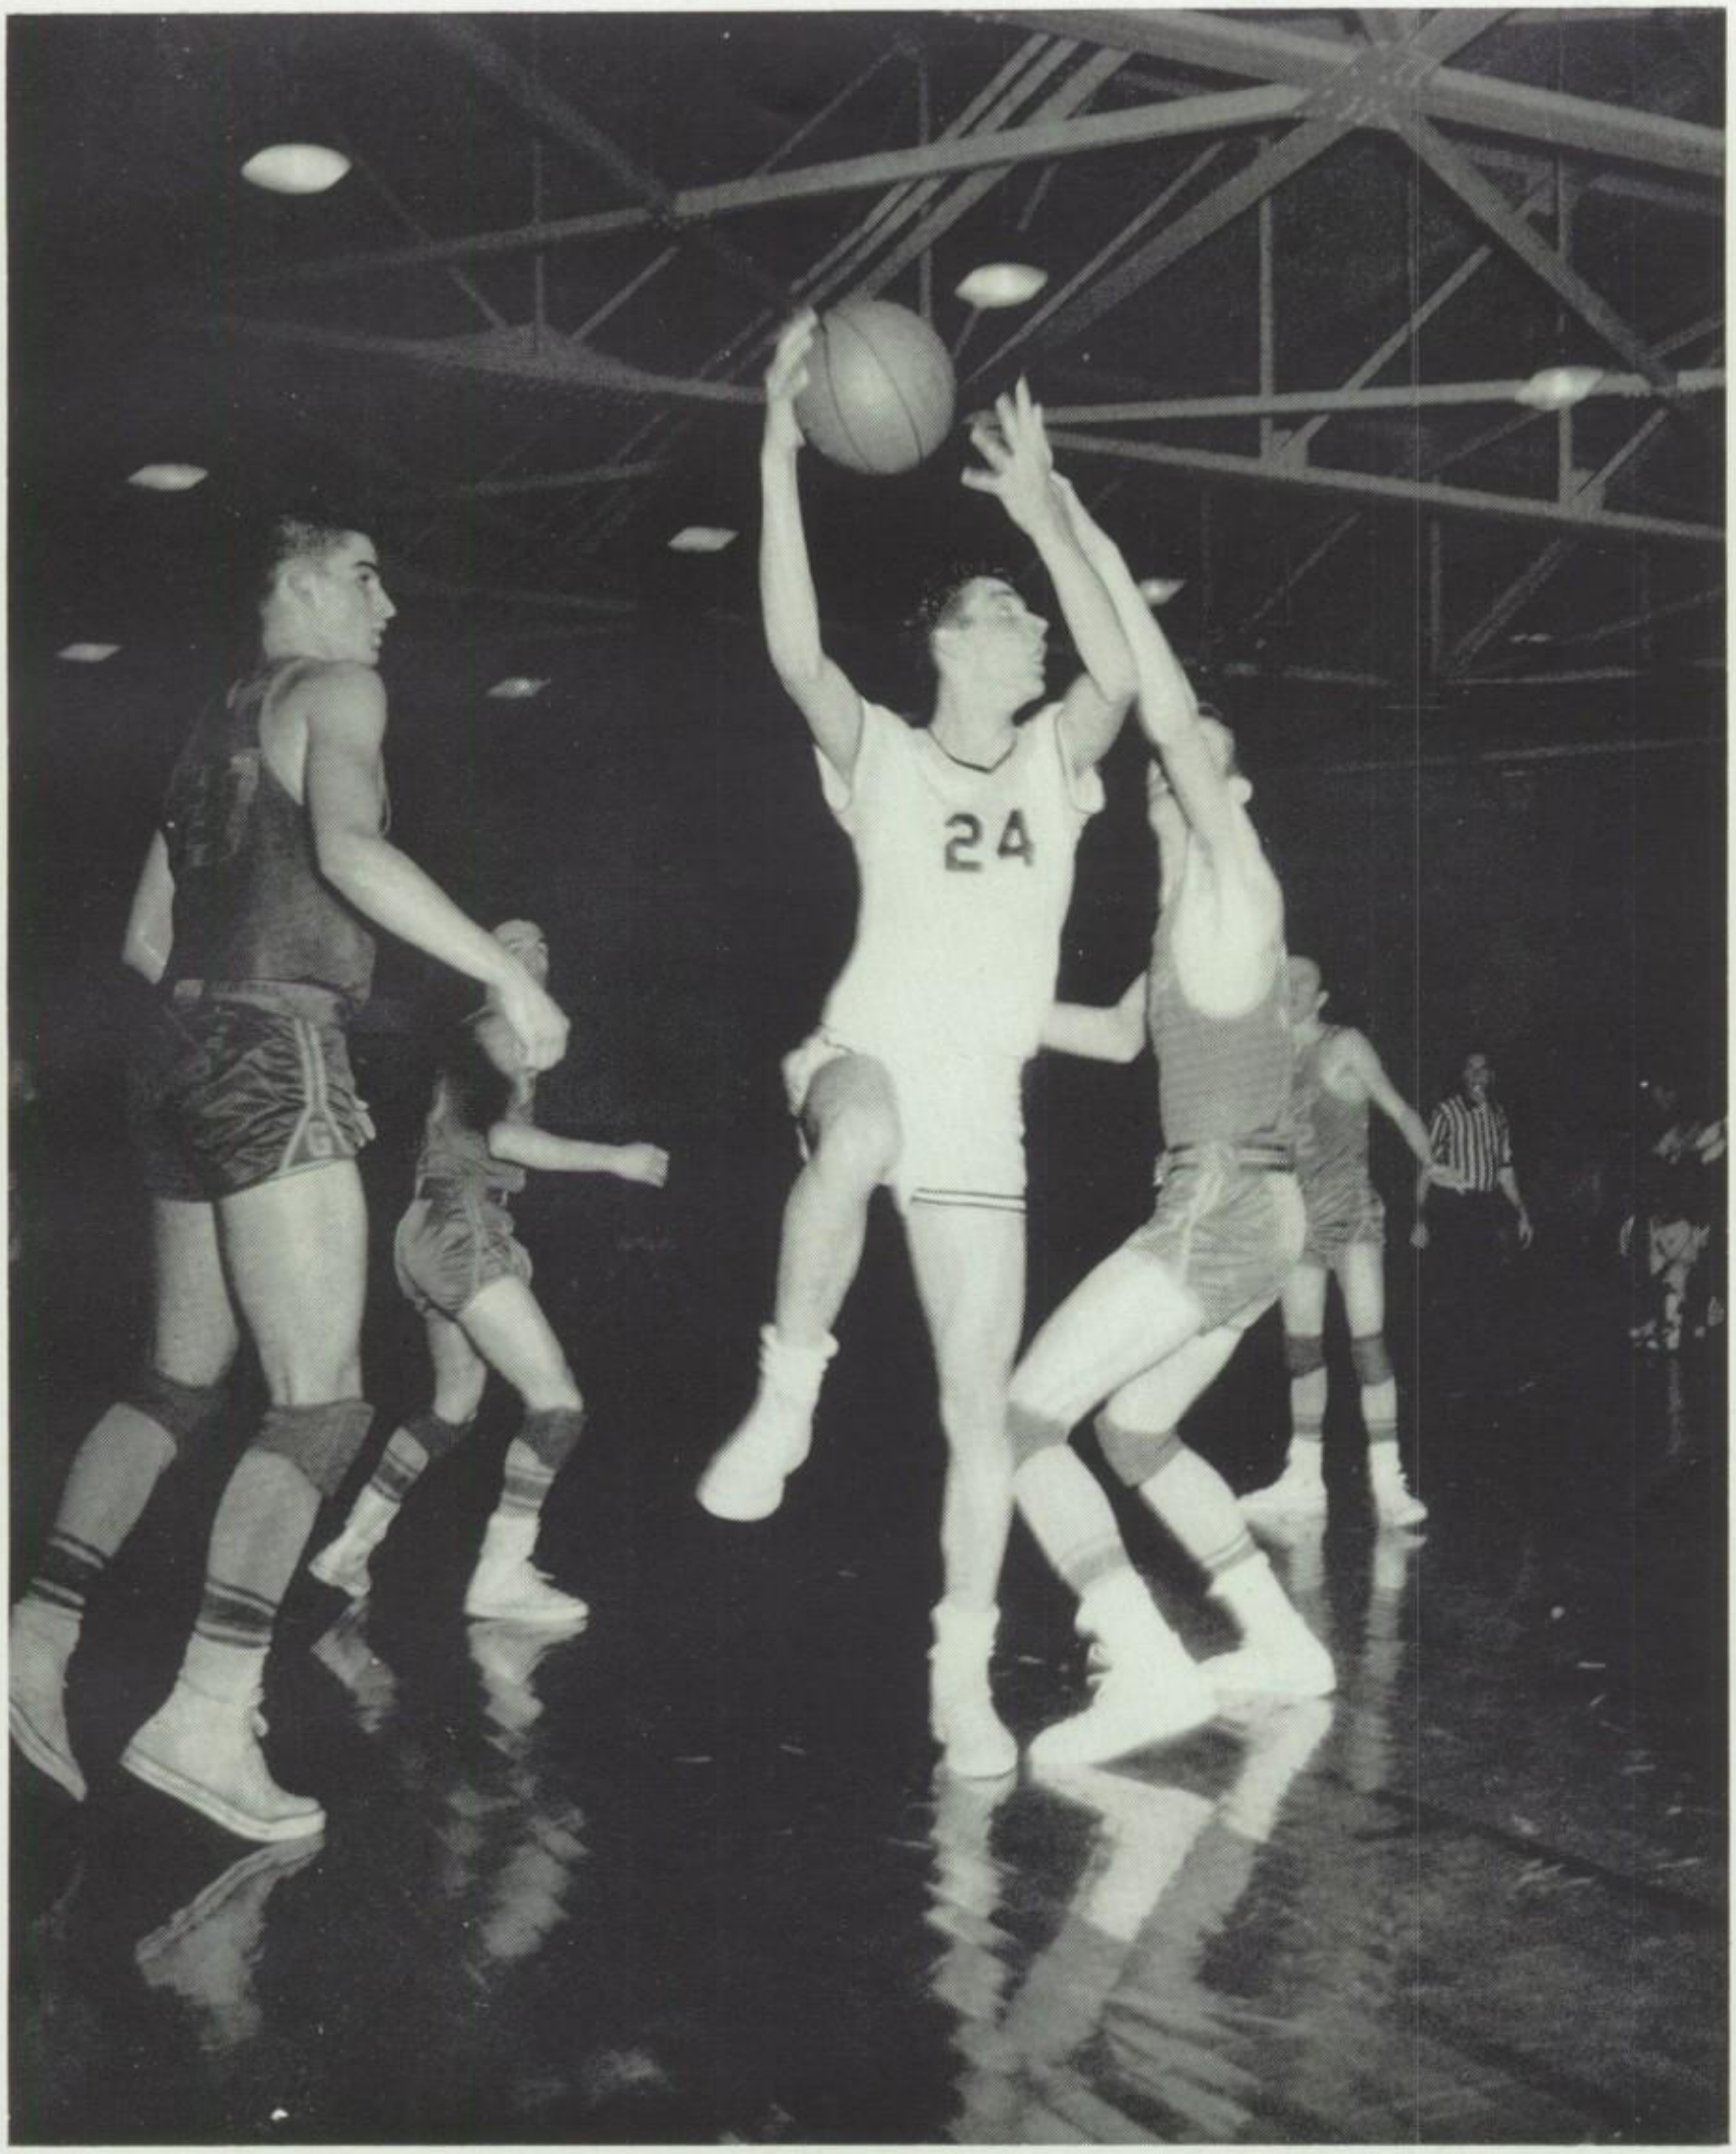
Throughout the year, we find ourselves caught up in the excitement of competitive sports! The cheerleaders practice cheering for hours after school in order that their voices may be trained to inspire the fans and cheer the team on to victory.

Those who work at the games selling tickets, passing out programs, or serving the mob at the concession stand hope, too, that their efforts will be well-rewarded by victory.

The students who keep the record books and operate the clocks are always plied with questions! Who was high scorer? Who made the extra point? Who struck out? They do their best to keep everyone informed with the latest statistics.

In athletics we have days that stand out as "glory" days — The day we won the championship! The day we beat the really tough team! The day we pitched a no-hitter!

In addition to these events, we have a memorable day each year called "Homecoming Day." Homecoming is important to the football players, the students, and the faculty. On this day old familiar faces come back to old familiar places. Handshakes, greetings, and good fun prevail.



Big John Eggleston goes up for a shot in Morehead's victory over Gray.

CHEERLEADERS

The cheerleaders are, of course, an important part of our athletic program. It is their job to encourage good sportsmanship and a real interest in sports. The girls, under the direction of Miss Peggy Horner, come from all three classes.

N. Blackwell, G. Harris, K. Clifton, B. Stein, F. McCulloch, B. Clark, D. Craig, E. Dunn, G. Hopkins, J. Eggleston, M. Oakley, A. Wade.

Glenn Hopkins

This year's J. V. team has raised hopes of another championship team in the minds of many.

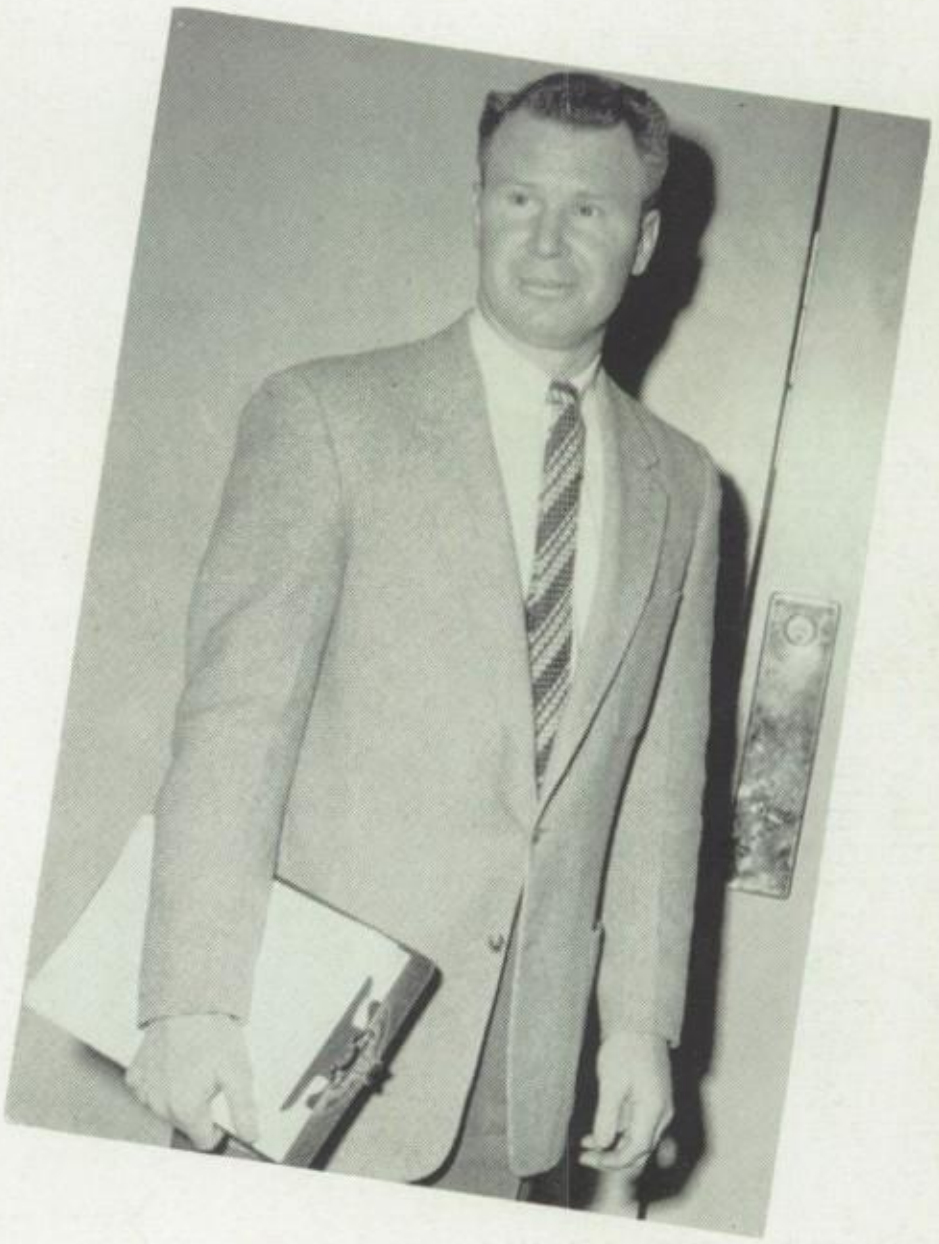
J. Woody, R. Craddock, D. Hall, H. Smith, E. Wood, R. Mode, W. McCollum, C. Ferguson, G. Harmon, G. Ogburn.

Glenn Hopkins begins a drive to the basket.

J. Bryant, D. Fair, A. Stultz, Myrna Stephens, M. Stephens, F. Pace, B. Barrow, I. Davis, T. Tulloch, G. Hall, F. Lewis.

PANTHERETTES

By his ability, patience, and devotion of time, Coach Mott Price has directed his team well.



Seniors Frances Lewis and Anne Marie Stultz have contributed three years effort to the team.

Daphne Fair drives toward the Morehead goal, while Martha Stephens, one of the Pantherettes' powerful twins, evades a Reidsville opponent.

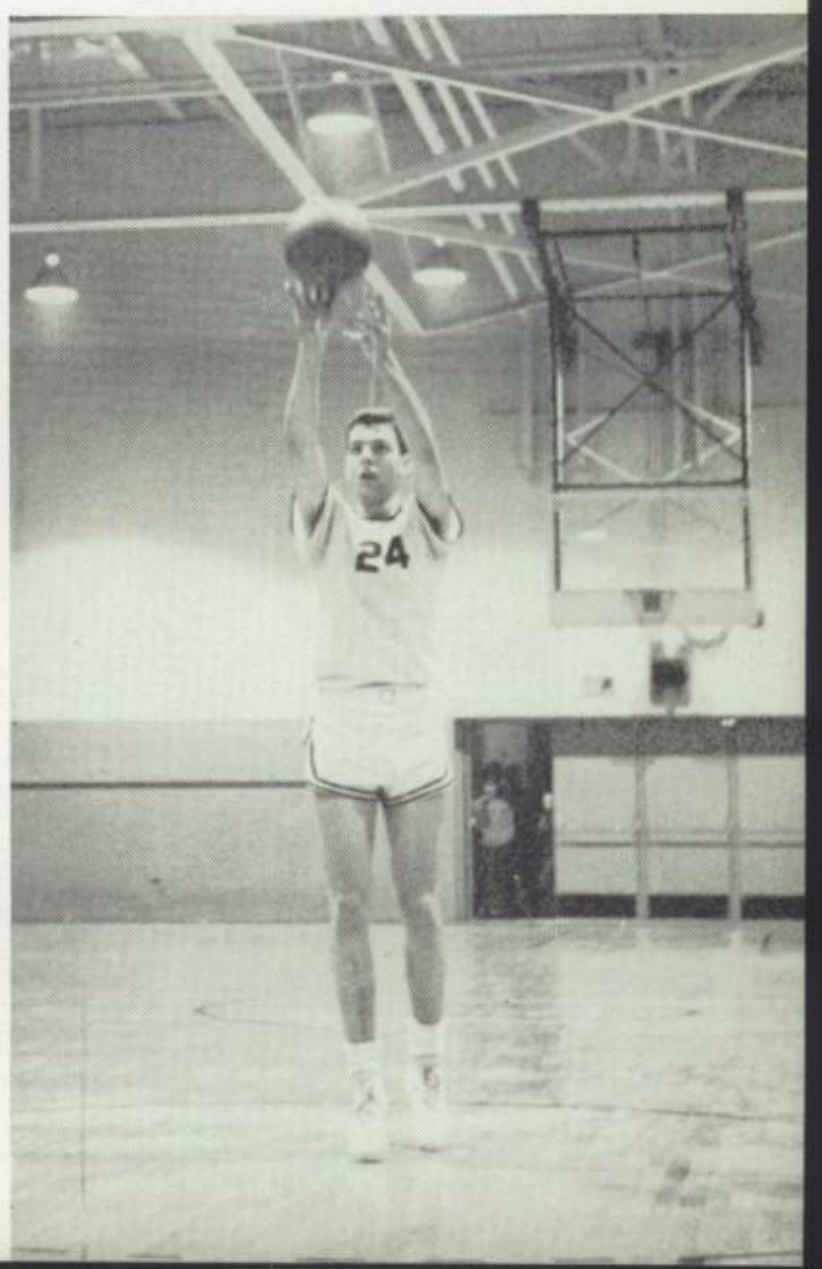
"Where's that ball?" seems to be the question guards Frances Lewis and Dodo Davis are asking.

Martha Stephens takes a quick sight on the goal, while teammate Anne Marie Stultz moves into rebound position.

AA Champs: Thomas Stanley, Donnie Matthews, C. G. Hall, Bill Stein, Coach Rhodes, LeRoy Carter, Manager Albert Wade, Ralph Roach, Sam Gammons, John Eggleston, Mike Hough, Glenn Hopkins, R. E. New, and Marsh Oakley! After the final victory the 1957 Panthers are punch-drunk with happiness!

A. A. CHAMPIONS

After an undefeated season, coached by Ray Rhodes, the Tri-City Panthers roared to the capture of their third tournament trophy. One of the outstanding players of the tournament, John Eggleston, was later selected for the All-State team.



FEATURES

Certain events of the year merit special attention from us, as they are the result of exhaustive planning and work that involves nearly all students and faculty members. Our features include gala social events, informative meetings with college representatives, and discussions about careers with people actually engaged in the professions.

Many of these events are sponsored by clubs. These require the concentrated efforts of a small group of people. The long hours of preparation are, however, regarded with a feeling of accomplishment and satisfaction.

College Day is an example of one of the club-sponsored activities. The F. T. A. members invite representatives from colleges to talk personally with students interested in any of the represented schools.

The tapping of new members of the National Honor Society is another memorable occasion.

All of our features, from the Junior-Senior to Homecoming are guaranteed success because we are bound and determined to enjoy what we do ourselves.

Beth Hoback, Gail Young, and Peggy Burkes decorate the music room for the annual Alumni Homecoming Dance.

I will always remember you as the nicest man I have ever met. It has been a wonderful year and I have enjoyed being with you very much. Lots of luck to you always

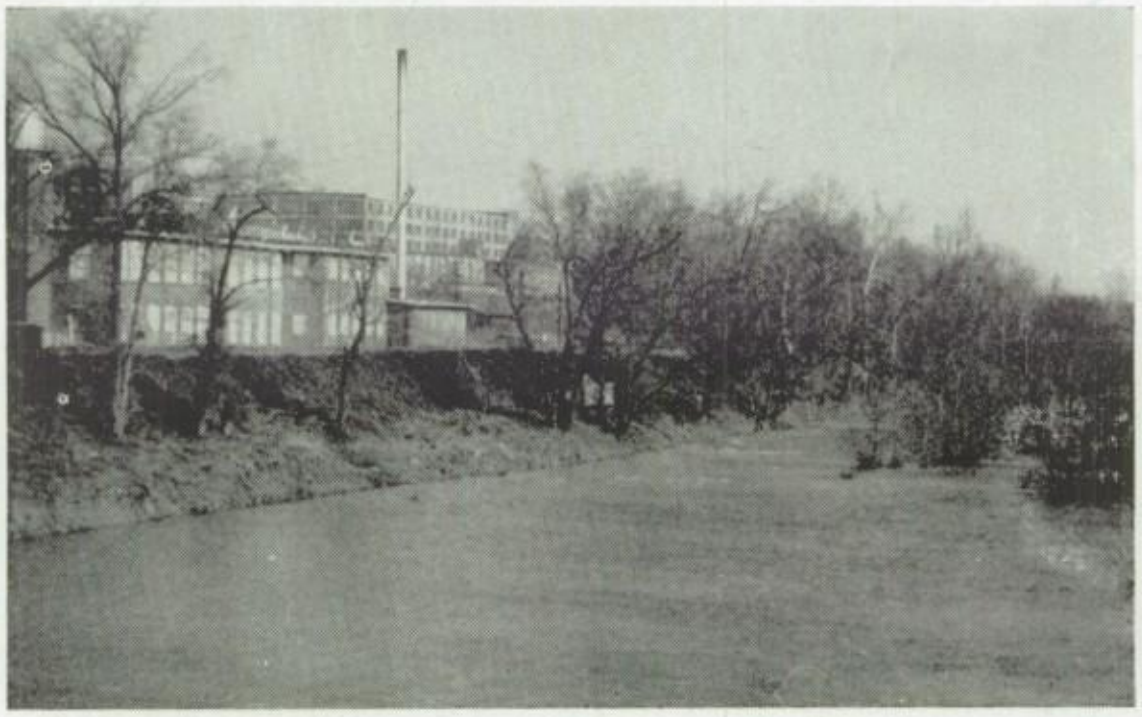
ADVERTISEMENTS



The firms represented by their advertisements in the following pages need no introduction. Most of them are conveniently located in various sections of Leaksville, Draper, and Spray. These local businesses, in return for your patronization, have purchased ads to help us cover the cost of this book. Many of our students work for the local firms. Our own school store carries some products locally produced and distributed.

Many of the firms are strong backers of our athletic teams and are truly interested in all attainments of students and faculty. We appreciate their loyal support.

In many cases the attractive stores, offices, and grounds of our advertisers add to the attractiveness of our school community.

On our booster page this year will be found the names of many of our leading citizens and professional men. They too, have expressed a desire to give us a "boost" in financing our annual. We can pay our debt to them with continued achievements in our school activities.

From simple beginnings Leaksville, Spray, and Draper have expanded into the moderate bustle of a small town. Today, through the progressive direction of its leaders, they move to greater things while retaining the personal atmosphere of small town life.
